

114 W. Lake Street – Contributing (ARC Case 02-18)

This is a two-story asymmetrical Queen Anne style dwelling with Italianate influence, built in 1891 for the Jerome Kingsley family. The house has a brick foundation, an exterior of weatherboard siding, an interior brick chimney and a hipped roof of asphalt shingles. On the main (S) façade is a rebuilt shed roof porch and attached gazebo with ca. 1990, square posts. The main entrance retains its original double doors of arched, single-light and raised wood panel design. Windows are original, rectangular, one-over-one double hung wood sash. On the main façade is a two-story, polygonal bay which has fixed single-lights on the central bay with stained glass and transoms. The windows have wood cornices and fluted wood surrounds. The chamfered corner bays have spandrels between the two windows with arched panels and pellet moldings. At the eaves are paired modillion brackets with drop pendants. At the roofline is a widow's walk with a balustrade of milled panels. At the rear is an original, one-story porch with ca. 1990, wood posts and railings.

Adjacent to the house is a ca. 1990, frame garage with an exterior of weatherboard siding, a projecting, three-sided, hipped roof entry over a glass and wood pedestrian door, an eight-light and twenty-four wood panel overhead track door and a widow's walk at the apex of the roof. – Noncontributing